

Michael Angelo Jones

September 29, 1950 - December 12, 2023

Michael Angelo Jones was born to William T. and Ernestine D. Jones in Baltimore, MD on September 29th, 1950. He peacefully entered eternal rest on December 12, 2023, at Northwest Hospital. His early education was in the Baltimore City Public School System and he graduated from Forest Park High School Class of 1968. He attended Morgan College (Morgan State University.)

At 19 years of age, he left Baltimore to attend the Philadelphia School of Fine Arts and later transferred to Fashion Institute Technology in New York City. His love for culture, art and travel made New York the place to call home. He loved to travel here in the United States and abroad, many times alone. Watching television, movies and reading were hobbies he loved.

After being injured in New York, he returned to Baltimore to recover. He had several serious health conditions but never complained. He knew who healed him, sustained him, and where his help came from. Michael followed many paths before finding his true passion for cooking and decorating. He graduated from Baltimore Culinary International College (Baltimore School of Culinary Arts.) He was employed at Sutton Place Gourmet as an Executive Chef until it closed. Later he worked at Whole Foods Market in Harbor East as a Chef until he came out on disability. He was affectionately known there by his team mates as “Doctor Jones,” because of his knowledge of cooking.

Michael leaves to celebrate his life and cherish his memory a devoted mother and care giver, Aunt Linda Neal of Fairborn, Ohio and a host of cousins and many devoted friends.
